

I live in Lexington, KY and my family and I frequently listen to a radio station called K-LOVE that is heard on 89.9, 96.3, and 104.3 FM. All three of these stations serve our local community and the surrounding areas of Lexington. I understand that there is a new broadcast service known as Low Power FM. If this service is allowed to take priority over current FM translator services, it is quite possible that parts of the Lexington area would be without the K-LOVE signal. The service provided by K-LOVE is in the public interest because it allows hundreds of thousands of people the opportunity to hear words of encouragement and hope. It is my request that you please consider limiting or curtailing the expansion of LPFM so that broadcasters like K-LOVE are not adversely affected. I cannot begin to tell you how much K-LOVE has blessed the lives of my family members and very many of my friends in this community. I can think of few groups that do MORE in the public interest than the K-LOVE network of stations. Their broadcasts encourage family stability, good citizenship, and a commitment to one's fellow man. Please do not let K-LOVE be displaced by local signals that will most likely do far less for the community and the common good of all radio listeners.
